Introduction

This is a brief guide to the major alcohol sales outlets in Australia.

Packaged liquor accounts for 80% of all alcohol sold in Australia.\(^1\) It is therefore important to understand who is selling it and how it is made available.

The packaged liquor market in Australia is dominated by the major supermarket chains Woolworths and Coles, who accounted for over 63% of the liquor retail market share in 2015-16.\(^2\)

This guide outlines the numerous retail brands of these two companies, as well as banner groups and several examples of online liquor retailers operating in Australia.

It is important for all those with an interest in alcohol policy to understand the nature of the industry to help inform a broader understanding of how alcohol companies and industry groups seek to influence alcohol policy. For example, knowing who the major players are in the liquor retailing world is helpful when considering policies regarding alcohol availability (e.g. trading hours and outlet density) and liquor licensing issues.

The information in this guide focuses on the off-premise sector and has been collated and summarised from a wide range of sources including company websites, annual reports and industry publications. Due to the constantly changing nature of the industry, this document should be taken as a guide only.
